

Welcome to the Nursing Assistant Training Program. Participation is based on an interview process. If you are accepted into this program, you will be receiving 88 hours of training over an eleven day period, both in the classroom and clinical areas. These hours exceed the Federal and Montana State requirements. This course is being taught by qualified licensed nurse instructors, based on the requirements outlined by the State of Montana. Congratulations on choosing this growing field of Health Care. There are many opportunities for advancement within the medical field.

The purpose of this course is to teach you good basic nursing care, so you may give the best possible care to the residents of long term care facilities. After successfully completing this course, you will be eligible to test for Montana State Certification. The necessary forms for registration and testing will be provided to you at the end of the course by the instructor.

There is no charge to individuals who receive training, and your participation in this program is strictly voluntary. Therefore, you are not entitled to wages or benefits from the facility or St. John's Lutheran Home while you are going through this program. Under no circumstances or conditions is this training program to be considered as an offer of or a guarantee of employment with St. John's Lutheran Home.

Admission Policy

1) To participate in this program, you must be at least 18 years of age, and be able to speak, read, write and understand English well.

2) A $35.00 fee, payable the first day of class, will be charged for textbooks and other educational materials necessary to complete this course. Uniforms and comfortable shoes (no sandals) must be furnished by the students, and are required to be worn throughout the entire course.

3) This program is 88 hours long.

4) All classroom and clinical days must be attended.

5) The classroom hours are 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Classes will start promptly.

6) The clinical hours are 6:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. but may vary according to facility policy.

7) The classroom and clinical portions both must be successfully completed as determined by program requirements.

8) The trainee agrees to return the gait belt to the instructor at the completion of the classroom portion of the course.

9) Trainee is aware of risks associated with performing nursing assistant duties in this training class. Trainee agrees to assume liability for injury to trainee and further agrees that the trainer is not held liable for any injury to trainee while attending training class.

10) Both parties acknowledge that in the event one party must secure and expend financial resources to enforce this agreement, the other party shall be responsible for all such costs.

Tuberculosis screening is required by the State of Montana. If you are accepted into this program, you will be asked to provide proof of this test being done, or the test will be provided within the first few days of training with the appropriate consent form signed by the student.

This training program allows the student to settle into class, and demonstrate that he/she has the skills and the attitude that is required to be a successful nursing assistant. Although the instructor is available to coach, counsel, and assist the new students during this time, it is essentially the student's responsibility to demonstrate that he/she is suitable for meeting the skill requirements of a nursing assistant. If in the opinion of the instructor, the student is not suitable for the nursing assistant role, the student may be expelled from this training program without warning.

Termination Policy

If a student commits an offense which is defined as gross misconduct, the student will be expelled from this program without prior warning. The offenses that fall into this category are:

- a) Possession of, or being under the influence of alcohol and/or illegal substances in or around the property of this facility.
- b) Physical, verbal, or emotional/psychological abuse of a resident, employee, visitor, or fellow student.
- c) Theft, attempted theft, and/or unauthorized possession of the property of a resident, visitor, employee, fellow student, or the facility.
- d) Fighting, hitting, shoving, pushing, or forcibly grabbing another student, resident, employee, or visitor or similar physical act while on the property of this facility.
- e) Sexual harassment of any employee of the facility or fellow student.
- f) Willful behavior that results in the damage, destruction, or loss of property of the facility, residents, employees, fellow students or visitors.
- g) Conviction of a felony while enrolled in the training program. An indictment for an alleged felony may also serve as a basis for being expelled in cases where the sensitive nature of a student's duties justifies such action.
- h) Unauthorized disclosure of confidential or privileged information concerning the residents, employees, other students, or the facility.
- i) Accepting bribes, kickbacks, or other gratuities from residents or visitors.
- j) Refusal or failure to carry out a reasonable assignment, after being warned that failure to do so may result in being expelled from this program.
- k) Inability to pass classroom written/oral examinations with a minimum grade of 75%.
- l) Refusal or failure to carry out any part of the aforementioned agreement.

I hereby acknowledge, by my signature below, that I have read, understand, and agree to abide by the above conditions for which I am applying in the Nursing Assistant Training Program.

A Summary of Your Rights Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act

The federal Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) promotes the accuracy, fairness and privacy of information in the files of consumer reporting agencies. There are many types of consumer reporting agencies, including credit bureaus and specialty agencies (such as agencies that sell information about check writing histories, medical records, and rental history records). Here is a summary of your major rights under the FCRA. For more information, including information about additional rights, go to www.ftc.gov/credit or write to: Consumer Response Center, Room 130-A, Federal Trade Commission, 600 Pennsylvania Ave. N.W., Washington, DC 20580.

You must be told if information in your file has been used against you. Anyone who uses a credit report or another type of consumer report to deny your application for credit, insurance, or employment – or to take another adverse action against you – must tell you, and must give you the name, address and phone number of the agency that provided the information.

You have the right to know what is in your file. You may request and obtain all the information about you in the files of a consumer reporting agency (your "file disclosure"). You will be required to provide proper identification, which may include your Social Security number. In many cases, the disclosure will be free. You are entitled to a free file disclosure if:

- A person has taken adverse action against you because of information in your credit report;
- You are the victim of identify theft and place a fraud alert in your file;
- Your file contains inaccurate information as a result of fraud;
- You are on public assistance;
- You are unemployed but expect to apply for employment within 60 days.

In addition, by September 2005 all consumers will be entitled to one free disclosure every 12 months upon request from each nationwide credit bureau and from nationwide specialty consumer reporting agencies. See www.ftc.gov/credit for additional information.

You have the right to ask for a credit score. Credit scores are numerical summaries of your credit worthiness based on information from credit bureaus. You may request a credit score from consumer reporting agencies that create scores or distribute scores used in residential real property loans, but you will have to pay for it. In some mortgage transactions, you will receive credit score information for free from the mortgage lender.

You have the right to dispute incomplete or inaccurate information. If you identify information in your file that is incomplete or inaccurate and report it to the consumer reporting agency, the agency must investigate unless your dispute is frivolous. See www.ftc.gov/credit for an explanation of dispute procedures.

Consumer reporting agencies must correct or delete inaccurate, incomplete or unverifiable information. Inaccurate, incomplete or unverifiable information must be removed or corrected, usually within 30 days. However, a consumer reporting agency may continue to report information it has verified as accurate.

Consumer reporting agencies may not report outdated negative information. In most cases, a consumer reporting agency may not report negative information that is more than seven years old, or bankruptcies that are more than 10 years old.

Access to your file is limited. A consumer reporting agency may provide information about you only to people with a valid need - usually to consider an application with a creditor, insurer, employer, landlord, or other business. The FCRA specifies those with a valid need for access.

You must give your consent for reports to be provided to employers. A consumer reporting agency may not give out information about you to your employer, or a potential employer, without your written consent given to the employer. Written consent generally is not required in the trucking industry. For more information, go to www.ftc.gov/credit.

You may limit "prescreened" offers of credit and insurance you get based on information in your credit report. Unsolicited "prescreened" offers for credit and insurance must include a toll-free phone number you can call if you choose to remove your name and address from the lists these offers are based on. You may opt-out with the nationwide credit bureaus at 1-888-567-8688.

You may seek damages from violators. If a consumer reporting agency, or, in some cases, a user of consumer reports or a furnisher of information to a consumer reporting agency violates the FCRA, you may be able to sue in state or federal court.

Identity theft victims and active duty military personnel have additional rights. For more information, visit www.ftc.gov/credit.

States may enforce the FCRA, and many states have their own consumer reporting laws. In some cases, you may have more rights under state law. For more information, contact your state or local consumer protection agency or your state Attorney General. Federal enforcers are:
